I have the honor to present herewith my Annual Report to the Society.

I claim it an honor to act with and for an institution that for more than fourscore years has "kept the even tenor of its way" of usefulness and benevolence unspotted before the world.

During the past year nothing occurred to particularly disturb the serenity of its monetary interests, or that seems to call upon me for either note or comment.

With my Annual Report the financial history of the Society for the past year is spread before you, and courting the closest scrutiny into my official acts, the whole is respectfully submitted.

The Finance Committee, to whom, under the By-Laws, is referred the charge of the buildings and lands belonging to the Society, would respectfully report:

That upon examination they find the buildings all in good condition. The property on Broadway and Park Place has had a new and substantial building erected on it by the lessee in accordance with the terms of the lease. The property on Chambers-street has been repaired and repainted by the lessee, also as per agreement under the new lease with him. The property on Broadway and Crosby-street has been repaired and repainted, and is in a very good condition for a building that has stood so long and has undergone so many alterations as it has.

The buildings are all under lease, so that there will not be any changes for the ensuing year.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

The Committee on Pensions, in presenting their annual financial statement, respectfully report that there are at present eighty-five Pensioners under their charge, viz.:

Five members, seventy-four widows and six children, to whom they have paid the sum of ($6,965) six thousand nine hundred and sixty-five dollars during the past year.

Two of the members on the pension roll have been for a number of years in a very sick and helpless condition, and are wholly dependent on the Committee for their means of support. There are no hopes of their recovery, and the Committee will have to contribute to their wants until death relieves them from their sufferings.

The other three members, though all verging on eighty years of age, are in comparative good health for their time of life.

By the assistance of friends they are placed above the fear of want, and the pension of ($156) one hundred and fifty-six dollars per annum is a great help and solace to them in their declining years.

The seventy-four widows on the roll vary in age from forty-five to eighty-eight years. They are each allowed a pension of fifty-two dollars per annum, besides sundry donations from time to time. Many of them who are in the middle period of life are able by industry to contribute to their own support; others who are aged are taken care of by relatives and friends, and there are two who have been sick and helpless for several years, one of whom is wholly and the other partially supported by the Committee.

The Committee have much satisfaction in stating, that though most of these widows are very poor, they are all respectable and worthy of the support of the Society.

The six children on the roll are offspring of five mothers, who are also pensioners; they each receive an annual pension of twenty dollars until they are fourteen years of age.

During the past year three members and four widows have died, and the Committee have paid to their representatives forty dollars each, or two hundred and eighty dollars in all, for funeral expenses. The Committee, under a deep sense of their responsibility, have endeavored to dispense the funds committed to their charge with careful benevolence, and it gives them much pleasure to state, that the aged, infirm brothers, and the widows and orphans who are the objects of their bounty, are all very grateful to the Society for the benefits which they have received.

Respectfully submitted.

Our Library is the only one in the city especially designed for the use of that portion of the community the most in need of information, and the least able to pay for it, viz., the working boys and girls of New-York ; to these we offer, gratuitously, our collection of over forty-two thousand volumes, in all branches of science, art and literature. The Librarian's report, which is here appended, will show how far this class of the community have availed themselves of the privileges we offer, and we trust that the statistics there given will prove as gratifying to the Society as they have to your Committee. Nearly one thousand more Readers have taken books last year than the year previous.

A new system of purchasing books has been introduced, by which, while the number of volumes bought during the year remains nearly the same as before, nearly three times the number of works are placed before the Readers. The new supplement, just issued, will show the advantages of the new method ; it contains 46 double 8vo. pp., yet it has only the additions of one year, whereas in former years the same number of pages would suffice for the accessions of three or four years.

A number of changes have been introduced, and others are in progress ; in the delivery of books and in their classification, cataloguing, numbering and arrangement on the shelves. Further details will be given on the completion of the work. It has been the aim of your Committee to introduce all the improvements in Library economy that have come to their knowledge.

Respectfully submitted.

In presenting their Annual Report, the Literary and Scientific Committee beg to state that their best efforts have been directed to furnish such a course of strictly moral and instructive Lectures, delivered by genuine talent, as would be entirely satisfactory to the members of the Society; and, judging by the overflowing houses that have attended them, they entertain the pleasing hope that their result will be pronounced a success.

Feeling that the intention of the Society in this matter is, that while the Lectures are instructive, they shall also be re-creative, the Committee have endeavored to present only such as should fulfil that intention.

Desiring an expression of the sense of the Society on the subject, the whole is respectfully submitted.

On hand January 1, 1873,.....	$21,075 13

This highly important trust may now be said to be in perfect working order, and ready to receive and invest appropriations, donations and bequests to an unlimited amount.

It is a subject for ardent hope that this department will, with the fostering aid of the Society, under careful, vigilant and skillful guardians, prove itself a power, to aid this ancient, honorable, benevolent Institution in a matter which greatly occupies the minds of a large number of its members.

That this Society should occupy a more eligible location is a consummation most devoutly to be wished; yet when its benevolent interests are considered, which was its very root and groundwork, and the principle upon which it was founded, and which involves the welfare of the aged, the widow and the orphan, it becomes apparent that any movement made should have a solid basis.

Trusting that Divine Providence will so guide and direct its counsels, that a way may be opened for its speedy elevation and continued usefulness—remembering, with deep sorrow, the recent removal by death of the venerable proposer and constructor of this department, and trusting that our efforts and labors will meet with the approval of the Society, the whole is Respectfully submitted.
